Whether you are cruising by automobile or motorcycle, the Ohio River Scenic Byway is the perfect ride with exceptional river views, breathtaking hills and lush forest valleys connected by curvy routes dotted with charming river towns – ideal road stops with fabulous local food and interesting things to do. While the entire national byway spans 943 miles, half of the journey (or 452 miles) borders the great state of Ohio with near-constant views of the mighty Ohio River.

Start your international excursion by flying into Cincinnati, the largest city along Ohio's River Trail!

Day One: Cincinnati

Beginning in Cincinnati you'll find awe-inspiring river views – and something to delight every member of your traveling party. The third largest city in Ohio presents opportunities for

- watching a major league baseball game,
- spanning a historic bridge (or seven) or
- adventuring renaissance-style through art museums, live music and professional theater.

Cincinnati is home of the National Underground Railroad Freedom Center, a museum built to tell the story of the Underground Railroad. It also provides exhibits and programs about the endeavor to prevent and stop all forms of slavery and human trafficking around the world.

Day Two: On your way to Marietta you'll find a beautiful drive in any season.

You'll drive through several Appalachian counties not only known for their natural beauty but also for their cultural resources. Rich in history and flourishing with activity, the beauty of the water attracts and inspires musicians and artists from all over the world. In Marietta, Washington County, Ohio you can create unforgettable memories!

The charming riverboat town showcases the first city in Ohio and the first permanent settlement in the Northwest Territory. Since then, Marietta has blossomed into a revitalized main street community known for great food, eclectic shops, amazing music venues, vibrant nightlife and historic hotels.
